Key Knowledge

When was the Great Fire of London?

The Great Fire of London started on Sunday, 2nd September 1666
The Great Fire of London ended on Thursday, 6th September 1666

Where did the fire start?

The fire started in a bakery on Pudding Lane in London

Why did the fire spread so quickly?

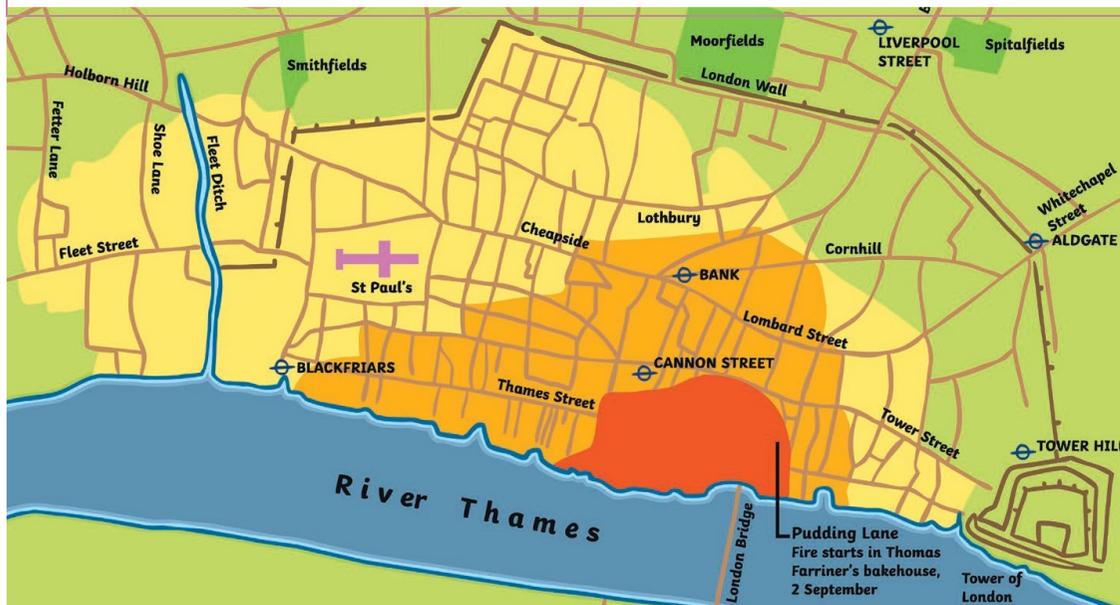

In 1666, the buildings in London were very close together and many were made of wood. Some houses also had roofs made of straw which caught fire very easily.

What happened after the Great Fire of London?

After the fire, many buildings were rebuilt. King Charles II ordered that buildings should be built much further apart and made of stone. This would help make sure another fire could not happen again as easily as this one.
